'SHRINKING MAN' REGAINS HEALTH

Minneapolis Painter Is 15 Pounds Heavier—Shrinking Stops.

Minneapolis (AP) — Minneapolis' "shrinking man" is staging a comeback.

Hans Nelson, 52-year-old painter, has lost "that tired feeling" which reduced his height 10 inches and his weight 36 pounds during 13 years.

Since he reported to University of Minnesota hospital authorities a year ago, Nelson has had two relapses that kept him confined for several months in the institution. But now he has gained 15 pounds, can drive an automobile and "putter around the garage."

Victim of ostiamalacia, a disease produced by over-acceleration of the parathyroid gland, Nelson's stature dwindled from five feet 10 inches to five feet. His weight dropped from 190 to 140 pounds during the 13 years he has been afflicted but under dietary treatment he has gained 15 pounds.

Voices Optimism

"I have gained 15 pounds; last summer I drove my car several thousand miles and I can putter around the garage," said Nelson at his home today. "Those wonderful doctors have helped me. Maybe I will be able to work again."

University of Minnesota medical authorities were not so sanguine. Nelson, according to the spokesman for the hospital, is gaining strength, but the shrinkage has not been definitely checked.

Ostiamalacia was defined as a softening of bone tissues due to lack of calcium, attending physicians said.
